VOL. 25.

NO. 135.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Rep.): The Treasury Department is making arrangements to restore to the rightful owners certain family plate, including spoons and other valuable articles, captured in the South during the war. This is probably the Administration's indirect way of saying that it has no sympathy with General Butler's proposed candidacy for Congress on the Democratic ticket in Massachusetts.

New York Sun (Dem.): The Treasury has done well in calling twenty-five millions of bonds; let it do better, and call the remaining hundred millions. And not wait long for it, either.

Philadelphia Bulletin (Rep.): Mr. Henry George is talked of as a candidate for Mayor of New York. Mr. George has some smart notions about the philosophy of government, but if he ever to be elected Mayor of New York he would soon be in a sad plight in reconciling his theories to his practice. The workmen will do well to let Mr. George write books rather than run for office. He is of the kind of man who can talk much better than they can act.

New York Journal (Ind): The Plumed Knight is sly and will pick all the holes in the Democratic administration coat that he can but he will find it hard to bring in a stronger verdict than error in judgment.

TWO PICTURES

Pension Vetoes and White House Flowers.

A Washington dispatch says: A computation has been made of the annual "saving" effected by the 102 pension bills. The amounts granted to pensioners by seventy-eight of the bills vetoed ran from $24 to $864 a year, a total of $11,853, or an average of $152. Besides these seventy-eight cases there are now fourteen in the hands of the Senate Committee on Pensions, which at the same average, would amount to $2,128, making a total of $13,984. There are ten cases in which the vetoes make no difference, as the pensioners are already drawing the same pensions as the new Acts gave them. Only one of the bills covered arrears. This was in the case of T. S. Hopkins, and the arrears which he would have received aggregated $3,379. This "saving" is equal to about twice the sum to be expended this year "for repairs of the conservatory of the Executive Mansion." It is more than three times as great as the amount to be used "for care and necessary repairs of green-houses," also for the use and pleasure of the Executive, which is a separate and additional item of $4,000; it is not as great as the item of $16,000 "for care, repairs and refurbishing the Executive Mansion," which does not include the item of $3,000 "for fuel for the Executive Mansion and green-houses." The Executive Mansion items above mentioned foot up $29,000, and they do not include the appropriation for lighting the Executive Mansion, which amounts to several thousand dollars a year. Neither do they include the appropriation for the compensation of a private secretary, an assistant secretary, seven clerks, an usher, a steward, four messengers, five doorkeepers, one watchman, and one fireman, which amounts in all to $33,864, nor do they include items which aggregate $8,000 "for contingent expenses of the Executive office." The total of these various items of $70,864 are more than five times the amount "saved" by the 102 pension vetoes. It will be seen that by appending his signature to messages vetoing sixty-eight pension bills the President "saved" enough of the public money to repair and care for the conservatory and greenhouse of the Executive Mansion during a whole year, barring the expense of keeping them properly heated and lighted. The President is said to derive much pleasure from the conservatory. Of course it would cost the country a great deal more if it were not for the fact that this is an era of Jeffersonian simplicity. The widows whose claims were vetoed and who are subsisting by the charity of their friends, who own no green houses, or who are spending their last years in almshouses to which no conservatories belong, ought to rejoice when they know that a grateful republic provides so generously for the comfort and pleasure of its faithful and vigilant Chief Magistrate.

A New York Telegram editorial says: This will be remembered as the most eventful summer of the decade. The United States have been convulsed by earthquakes and social and political catastrophes, which have filled the public mind with concern for the immediate and future welfare of the Commonwealth. Texas is clamoring for war, Anarchists murdered people indiscriminately in the streets of Chicago, and the whole of the laboring classes have been writhing, upheaving and striking spasmodically. These things on the surface are as nothing compared with what has been going on within the past twenty-four hours under the earth's crust.

The free coinage of all the silver we produce, and a duty on foreign silver, would set our mining interests booming, and letting loose, instead of hoarding such large sums in the national treasury would make money plenty and put the labor of the country in a healthy condition.

A Great Paper.

The much talked-of Exposition Number of The Cincinnati Illustrated News is now out, and is without doubt the most interesting and attractive pictorial paper that has ever been published. There are thirty-two pages in all, and a grand eight-page illustration of the City of Cincinnati. The price of the paper is only fifteen cents. "The World Went Very Well Then," by the great English novelist, Walter Besant, which is commenced in this number, is one of the most interesting love romances ever written. The edition of this number has already reached 150,000 copies, and the people of the West, North, South and East should send in their orders at once for a copy of The Illustrated News (Cincinnati, Ohio), and thus help to give the glory of issuing the largest paper ever published in the world to our own enterprising countrymen. Make it a round half million copies.

Utilizing the Colored Vote.

The New York World's Washington special says: There is a new movement of some magnitude about to be inaugurated by the National Republican Congressional Committee in the way of systematic exodus of colored people. It has been a matter of long-standing complaint with the Republican managers that in parts of the South there are many Republican negroes whose votes are wasted and that the race is not making advancement. There has been for several years an organization to look after this matter. Fred Douglass of this city is President of the organization. He has studied the question carefully and collected many statistics. The Republican Committee, which has a large sum of money at its disposal, purposes to distribute the colored men before the campaign of 1888 where they will do the most good.

Spectacular Realism.

New York, Aug. 29.—A London cablegram says: Last evening old Drury performed a sporting drama, entitled, "Run on Luck," with the whole depth of the enormous stage turned into a racecourse, on which a field of nine regular racers contended with a neck-and-neck finish for the Goodwood Cup. Regular jockeys were in the saddles. This ambitious hit at realism was entirely successful, to judge from the approval on the faces of such sports in the boxes as Lord Rosenberry and Sir George Chiltwynd.

The Illinois Republican platform adopted favors the public domain for homesteads for actual settlers, protection of American labor, and denounces the doctrine of free trade and as outrageous the importation of Chinese laborers, pronounces convict labor an injustice to the honest laborer; and demands the enactment of such laws as will prevent it; denounces Socialistic and Anarchistic societies; arraigns the Democratic party for failing to keep its pledges and denounces Cleveland's pension vetoes; calls attention to the failure of this Government to protect American citizens in Canada when their rights were being infringed by the British Government, while its pretended efforts to protect an American citizen in a weak Republic like Mexico, it has made the American nation ridiculous in the eyes of all nations.

A New York Sun editorial says: "In this country it is useless to fight silver," says that solid old Southern journal, the Atlanta Constitution. Our contemporary would also have been right if it had said the war against silver originated and has been maintained chiefly through misinformation, avarice, obstinacy, stupidity and hallucination. When reduced to the simplest form of statement possible, the anti-silver crusade rests either on ignorance or greed. There is much less ignorance on this subject now than there was a year or two ago.

PAPERS FOR THE UNIVERSITY.—It seems that Nevada's State University is too poor to subscribe for all the papers published in this State, though Professors McCommon and Willis are anxious to give them space in the library reading room. The Index will be sent free until the State is able to pay, and other papers of the State are hereby appealed to in the hope that they will do likewise.—Index.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Carson Index.

It appears that Major Garrard, the Democratic war-horse, does not like the way the Ormsby Republicans have arranged to conduct their primary election, and it is feared that the party shall have his opposition to contend against. While this is a sad and unexpected state of affairs, the party has decided not to give up on that account, without a struggle, and an earnest endeavor will be made to stand him off. If he doesn't control more Republican votes than he does Democratic votes, there is still hopes that the party may pull through, the lack of his powerful co-operation and wise counsel will be keenly felt and sincerely regretted.

Senator Fair is said to have at last declared himself in the fight for re-election. This is good news for the hordes of hungry Democrats throughout the State who have been waiting for these tidings. Thus far, however, they have not manifested any great amount of enthusiasm. They appear to be waiting for some substantial basis upon which to ground their hopes. It is needless to say that in this regard the Nevada Bourbons are willing to accept the double standard—silver and gold being received at equal rates.

The report recently published by the Index that Mr. W. E. F. Deal, of Virginia City, was in the field as an aspirant for U. S. Senator Fair's place, has been generally discredited. It is the plain, solid truth, nevertheless, Mr. Deal has made the announcement publicly, and avows that his determination is unchangeable.

Hon. M. J. Farrell, of Austin, has recently been talked of as a Republican candidate for Governor. Mr. Farrell has many qualities of strength and availability. If Lander wants him, however, it must do the booming. Ormsby has candidates of her own to look after.

The talk now is that Hank Davis will ask for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, provided he is defeated for the Governorship. This would add to the tangle into which the fight for the Lieutenant Governorship has fallen.

LET THEM SEE IT.

The Lyon County Times gives this good advice:

There are few people who come from the East to visit San Francisco, but who go back disgusted with the horrors of Chinatown. Such persons as Beecher, to be sure, see no evil effect, but he is an exception to the general class of intelligent men. Out of the large numbers of Senators and Congressmen who are selected through the East to make our laws, but few, if any, have ever been in San Francisco, or even seen the horrors of a Chinatown in Chicago, New York or Boston. These representative men say there are only a few Congressmen from the West who are drawn on the Chinese, and therefore they do not believe that it is an issue that will benefit the whole country. The next time Congress meets it would be a good idea for it to adjourn a couple of weeks and take a trip to this coast. Let every one of them come and see for themselves what a curse the Chinese are to this country, and then they can go back and be able to discuss the question understandingly. An appropriation for this trip would be made better use of than many of the large appropriations that have been squandered for useless purposes. We do not know whether this plan would work, but if our lawmakers at Washington could see for themselves what was wanted there would, we believe, be no trouble in passing an iron-bound Restriction Act.

FAIR'S BURST OF CONFIDENCE.—The Carson Index tells the following good one on Ben Fitch:

Uncle Ben Fitch, of Elko, went to San Francisco recently, and incidentally called upon Uncle Jimmy Fair. After exhausting the weather topic, and commenting upon the effects which the Grand Army Encampment would have upon the next peanut crop, the visitor ventured to touch the verge of a political disquisition.

"The boys out in Elko want to run me for the Senate," said the guileless Ben, "but I don't exactly care about it. Nothing in it particularly for me you know; though of course I haven't exactly made up my mind. I know a good deal about Elko politics, though, and could do a whole lot of good for anybody who wanted to make the fight. For instance, I know just who ought to be voted for and who ought not, and all that you see. Now Senator what advice would you give me on this point?"

"My dear Sir," responded the frank, outspoken host, "it would be useless for me to give you advice. You know all about the situation out there, and anything I could say, wouldn't enlighten you further upon the subject; but what is this I hear about the rabbits all dying off in your county?"

He looked around, but Fitch was gone.

How many miners in this State will vote for candidates who endorse the Democratic Administration that has reduced the value of silver and thrown them out of employment.—Walker Lake Bulletin.

"CHOOSING A HUSBAND."

The Rev. T. K. Noble's Advice to Our Girls.

The San Francisco Chronicle, of Monday, says:

Yesterday evening a fairly large congregation assembled in Plymouth Church to hear the Rev. T. K. Noble discourse on the subject of "Choosing a Husband." He took his text from the first chapter and ninth verse of the book of Ruth, "The Lord grant you that you may find rest, each of you in the house of her husband." The reverend gentlemen said the book of Ruth is a small one and conveys its lessons through the arts of love. The book of Judges describes a woman as strong as a man; Ruth a man tender as a woman. Having recapitulated the story of the beautiful Moabitess, Mr. Noble proceeded to give practical hints upon the subject of his discourse. "If it is," said he, "an important thing for a young man to choose a good wife, it is still more important for a young woman to choose a proper husband. Love is an episode in a man's life; but a history in a woman's life. Man has a refuge from an unhappy home in his club, his companions and so on; but a woman has no such refuge. The great fault of marriage in this State is their hastiness. A young woman must not expect to find her husband perfect. Perfect young men are to be found only in cemeteries and books of a Sunday school library. Don't marry, said the preacher, unless you find in your soul a willingness to subject your will, if occasion arise, to your husband's. Don't marry unless you feel a deep affection for the man of your choice. While a woman should not marry unless she loves her intended husband, still that is no reason for marrying him. There must be many other reasons. He must be a man of sound principle, not a man whom she thought to reform or a man who had vices. Good looks and wealth are not the necessities of a happy home. Sound character, congeniality of temper and taste are necessary. The absence of these have caused the wreck of many men's homes.

The proper policy of our Government is protection to our own products. We produce silver in greater proportion than any other nation, and regardless of other nations we should protect it.—Walker Lake Bulletin.
